SECOND ARMY CORPS.

Plans for a Monument to Sumner Discussed by the Members.

The Second Army Corps held a meeting of much interest to the public and the old soldiers on Weonesday evening at Willards hall. Gen. brady, president of the asso-ciation, presided. The attendance was large and mach enthusiasm was manifested in the proceedings.

One of the special matters of interest discussed was the erection of a monument discussed was the erection of a monument in this city to Gen. Sammer, the first commander of the corps. It was determined to go ahead vigorously with this design and for this purpose a committee was appointed to take the initiative steps, the members being Dr. G. R. Hayes, chairman; Col. W. L. Bramball, and Col. C. E. Trouman.

Another matter of interest was that the corps has passed a set of resolutions and prepared an address to be presented to Major General Miles. Gen. Miles will be invited to attend the next meeting of the corps, when the resolutions will be presented Hill, Julian Greer, Emma Hamann, Wm. A.

this splendid organization.

Three addresses were delivered on Wednesday evening. The first was by Dr. Hayes, who had seen service as surgeon in the second army corps. His subject was "The Surgeon of the Army," and from his familiarity with the theme talked enter-tainingly and instructively. Mr. Joseph P. Erady spoke eloquently on the relations of the Sons of Veterans to the old flag and cause. He had, of course, no the old flag absicause. He had, of course, no personal reminiscences, but he spoke on a theme which is historic, the Second Army Corps liself. An interesting part of his re-marks was devoted to the necessity of having raught an importial history of the civil war in the public schools.

Col. Dewitt Sprague read a patriotic poem entitled "Abraham Lincoln," and by special request his poem of "The Maguires."

After describing the docking of the Texas

the report says:
"In general it is to be noted, first, the cracks in the cement almost everywhere extended in a fore and aft direction parallel to the keel, are only slight, and are about fifteen to eigniven feet from the middle line, second, where floor plates are buckled de-flections occur near the middle of the plates, third, no buckling or other effect was noted outside of the first longitudinal; was noted outside of the first longitudinal; fourth, the simp has not made any water whatever so far as can be seen at present, whatever so far as can be seen at present, though the dock has been flooded six feet above the keel for four days, showing that the chalking and riveting are intact, and the keel plate practically uninjured.

"The ship is at present lying in six feet of water, and can safely remain as long as necessary.

"In conclusion I submit: The ship was carefully docked, and every usual pre-caution observed.

Bending of the brackets and floor plates was due to the bending up of the ends of the cat blocks.

"The structural strength of the ship is

"The effects produced would have been entirely avoided if the ship had been promptly undocked when painting was com-pleted, and not delayed to change the picted, and not delayed to change the screws.

Constructor Bowles concludes his report by recommending that the cracks in the cement be repaired, which, he says, can be done in tweive days at a cost of $305, and that "two angle clips should be worked on each floor to stiffen the floors and brackets."

With reference to the report Mr. McAdoo, who was Acting Secretary of the Navy, said:

"The twelve days required to make the repairs to the Texas, recommended by Con-structor Bowles, seem to be out of pro-portion to the small amount of money ex-pended, but this is due to the fact that the work has to be done in the double bottons, where it is difficult to get at, and where only a small force can work.

"A further investigation of the result of the recent docking and the recommendations of the commander of the Texas, as to certain minor changes will all be submitted to the regular inspection board, who will examine her after her steam triat, which is about to take place and for which she will be undecked this week."

The recommendation of Constructor Bowles as to repairs has been approved by the chief of the Construction Bureau, Commo-dore Hichborn. The facts as to the extent of the injuries sustained by the Texas will undoubtedly come out on the steam trial, if that should take place on the day and Haunts.

"Why are so many overcoats being stolen from halls?" asked The Times of Detective Borne at headquarters, for the long list of petty thefts of this character which was strong out along the pages of the general complaint book, was a cause of comment in detective and police circles.

"This is the zenson when overcoats are popular," replied the sleuth as his lungs went off in a panic of laughter and the ribs of everybody else rattled. "People when they go home or go to their feeding grounds naturally hang their hats and coats on the rack which in nearly all houses stands in the hall close to the front door. The obetes knew this. They lork along the expets and if they find a door open they are apt to make a raid, but the way in which it is essuilly done is this:

opt to make a raid out the way in which it a usually done is this:

The thief who is, as a rule, one of the lowest class in the business, will go to the door and sek for something to eat. The servant will consult the lady of the house or go to the larder on her own responsibility. She does not like to shut the door in the stranger's face and she does not like the idea of inviting him into the house, so she hance and he embraces it. He also embraces everything else in sight and makes off. He skips to Virginia or Maryland and, the value of the goods stolen makes in cheaper to let him alone than to host him

"The musually large number of these thefits this fall is due to the influx of tramps. Recently several robberies on a small scale have been traced directly to lodgers at the Mission, while the municipal lodging house and the fifteen-cent sleeping houses have to be closely watched. One of the least wars to recover these troublessman best ways to prevent these troublesome larcenies is to look out for the hobos and have them move on the very instant they light in the city."

The dead body which has him at the morgue for three nights, has been identified as that of George Rengan, and the autopay, held yesterday afternoon showed that death was due to alcoholism and congestion of the lungs. The body will be interred in potter's field this foreneen.

Reama was a shiftless fellow. He had no home, but has "hung out" in the neighbeghood of the Washington end of the Founsylvania avenue bridge. An old woman, who had known the Reagan family in other days, called yesterday afternoon, and other days, called yesterday afternoon, and gazing in the blue, pinehed face for some moments said: "Yes, that is George. He was a wild fellow when he was a little boy and he never outgrew it." Yesterday three men, who had been companions of the dead man, called at the morgue and verified the identification. fied the identification.
